Git. Exercise 1.2

Open 3 command shells: one for bare repository, and the others to simulate activity of two developers.

- Try to reproduce the workflow presented in the class and invent new working cases.
- Try commands on slide9. Use them passing different parameters.
- Create a file with the "git log" from one developer side. git log > exercise_1_2.txt
- Deliver the diagram of your invented workflow + the log file through moodle. Before October, Friday 23rd.

Open 3 command shells: one for bare repository, and the others to simulate activity of two developers.

- Try to reproduce the workflow presented in the class and invent new working cases.

Reproduced the Workflow of unit 1B slides 4 to 8 (See Git Log's to check the Workflow)

- Try commands on slide9. Use them passing different parameters.

Tested others commands of unit 1B slide 9 with different parameters.

- Help is used during all the practice to know the use of parameters
- Config user.name and user.email was done in the start of the practice, because when I tried the first commit there was an error related to the identity. Searchead in google the cause and used help commands to know how fix my identity.
- Used git config -I to show the configuration of user
- Create a file with the "git log" from one developer side.
